Tadco to serve as Clear-Com's dedicated Live Performance distribution partner in South Africa

LONDON, UK— 29 JULY 2014 —Clear-Com® announced today that Tadco, the South African audio distribution company, will offer the entire range of Clear-Com communications systems to the House of Worship, live entertainment and AV sectors in the Sub-Saharan African region.

Today, specialists working in live production expect to have communication systems that are reliable and backed up with the necessary support. Clear-Com's unmatched intercom solutions, including partyline, digital matrix, wireless intercoms, and intercom-over-IP conferencing software, will provide the live production industry in the region of Sub-Saharan Africa with the dependable communication solution that it has been missing in the past few years. Tadco offers quality equipment and support for live production and commercial communications.

Josh Oates, Marketing Manager at Tadco, said, "Here at Tadco, we pride ourselves on the quality of audio products that we represent, bringing the world's best to our market. Clear-Com's reputation of manufacturing robust, reliable and quality systems means that they will fit in perfectly with the range of brands we already have to offer."

Nicki Fisher, Sales Director for EMEA at Clear-Com, said, “We are really excited to partner with Tadco and expand our presence in the region of Sub-Saharan Africa. Tadco has over twenty years’ experience supplying and supporting communications systems in the region’s live production industry, which puts Clear-Com in the perfect position to expand its brand in this particular market.”
